Rachit Ram (Raj Tarun), who studies in London, returns to Hyderabad with the ambition of becoming the CEO of his father's company, Parashuramaiah Enterprises. However, the company's bylaws require the potential CEO to live an ordinary life for 100 days without using any of their influence. If Rachit fails to comply, Vasu's (Ramya Krishnan) son (Viran Muttamsetti) gets the CEO position. Rachit accepts the challenge and sets out with minimal resources. During this journey, he supports farmers facing injustice and gets close to Ammulu (Hasini Sudheer), who manages flower gardens in a village. To find out whether Rachit becomes the CEO, you'll have to watch the movie.
