Hyderabad: The Sampanghi Group, which has been achieving extraordinary milestones over the past six years in the fields of real estate, natural farming, and hospitality, has now secured a prestigious place in the Guinness Book of World Records. The group accomplished this rare feat by successfully cultivating date palms—previously considered impossible to grow—in Telangana. This remarkable achievement is credited to the innovative vision and agricultural expertise (Ph.D.) of Sampanghi Group Chairman Dr. Ramesh Sampanghi, and the dynamic leadership of CEO Suresh Sampanghi.

At a special event held in Hyderabad, Telangana Minister Duddilla Sridhar Babu attended as the chief guest and, in the presence of Guinness Book representatives, presented the Guinness World Record certificate to the Sampanghi Group. On this occasion, the minister praised Dr. Ramesh Sampanghi and Suresh Sampanghi for their visionary leadership and commended their dedicated service to society.

Sampanghi Group has emerged as a prominent brand in the Telugu states. Beyond simply selling land in the real estate sector, the group has gained recognition for its unique approach of offering health, income, and happiness to its customers. By introducing date palm cultivation in Narayankhed and creating a stable source of income for plot owners, the group has brought revolutionary changes to the agriculture sector. This initiative also promotes environmental sustainability, sustainable farming, and economic well-being.

Dr. Ramesh Sampanghi's "Maanapantha" Organic Farming Initiative is dedicated to promoting organic agriculture while delivering healthy and delicious produce to the community. CEO Suresh Sampanghi plays a crucial role in the organization's growth and innovative project execution, backed by his business acumen and engineering background. The brothers have proven that real estate can be about social welfare, not just profit.

Expanding their services beyond the Telugu states, the Sampanghi Group has established a presence in over ten countries including the USA, Singapore, Dubai, and Ghana. They continue to lead in real estate, natural farming, and hospitality sectors. Their projects like "Treasure Valley" and "City of Joy" promote balanced lifestyles and offer modern, sustainable residential communities.

This Guinness World Record stands as a testament to the Sampanghi Group's commitment to quality, innovation, and excellence. Guests at the event expressed their hope that under the leadership of the Sampanghi brothers, the organization will continue to reach global heights. By treating their customers like family and offering them health, income, and happiness, the Sampanghi Group has carved out a unique identity in the industry.
